

A Blog project:

“Raise your voices against racism and populism”

Have you experienced racism and populism and would like to write about it? You have a clear opinion about the presence of racism in our current society and how we should deal with populist and racist hostilities? We need your voice to set a sign against racism and populism. We are planning a cross-border Franco-German blog and want to give you the opportunity to publish your experiences. Your voice against racism and populism will be visible.

Describe your experiences with racism and populism in everyday life and in the internet as a person affected or an observer. Send us your story until the 09th November 2020. Your text should contain 3.500 to 5.000 signs (blanc space included). Use the language of your choice: French, German or English. Together with the blog editors we will support you with the journalistic preparation.

Submissions can only be considered if you hand in your

We guarantee anonymity. No previous journalistic knowledge is necessary.

The editors reserve the right to accept only a certain number of texts. To get your text accepted, the editorial team has to get in contact with you. You will agree to these terms by sending your contribution to us.

Students of the universities, high schools, Studierendenwerke and CROUS of Strasbourg, Mulhouse, Colmar, Lyon, Karlsruhe and Freiburg are authorized to participate.

Who we are:

We are an editorial team consisting of German and French students and volunteers from universities and student unions in the Upper Rhine and Lyon. Our editorial work is supported by the Jugendpresse Deutschland and sponsored by the German French Youth Office.

With this project we want to raise cross-border awareness of the existing problems of racism and populism in our society and give those affected a voice to make their experiences public.
